

Monkey Returned to Cage Bites Captor

Jasper, pet monkey belonging to B. J. Scott, escaped from his cage back of the Torrance Electric Shop last week-end, and enjoyed a few hours of liberty. He showed his resentment at being returned by biting his captor on the leg, inflicting a severe bruise.

Coach Comrada Bemoans Loss of Crack Punter; New Quarter Looms

Pre-season practice games with Bell and other local football outfits have not shown up the Gauchos of Narbonne in anything like their regular form, according to scouts of the Gaucho games. Since the disruption of the smooth-running team of last season, due to the loss of players by graduation and other causes, Coach Ben Comrada has been hard at work to rebuild his team, using as a nucleus such of his veterans as were left to him this year.

Lacking the services of an experienced quarterback, Comrada has had to do some experimenting, and at present is experimenting with one of his veteran line-men of past seasons, William Shepard, who is being coached by the pilot's job. Shepard is a smart football player, who was of great value to his team last year at guard, and gives promise of being up to the mark at quarter. He will at least have the advantage of working with some of his last season's mates, as it is very probable that Watanabe, Tidmarsh, Williams, Gould, Cargenter, McEwen and Rider will be listed in the regular line-up. Such an array of veterans should give any new quarter confidence and build up the fighting spirit for which the Gauchos are famous among the Marines.

One body blow handed to the team during the past few days, came with the information that Sekul Angelich, star punter and All-Marine right end of last year, will not be back in the lineup this fall. Angelich has been spending the summer on the Ridge route and at last reports had decided not to return to Narbonne this semester. The loss of the star end has been a tough break for the Gauchos. The B squad is putting in a lot of practice work in preparation for

Many Deer Taken By Hunters During Present Fall Season

Nimrods have until October 15th to bag their deer, according to County Game Warden Spence D. Turner. At the present rate of 25 to 30 deer successfully hunted down each day by sportsmen in Los Angeles county alone, the deer will be exceedingly thankful for the arrival of the closing day.

Although game wardens and rangers have warned hunters that they were exercising every care to prevent illegal killing, eight deer were taken illegally during the past week. Of these eight deer, four were spikes, three were does and one was a fawn.

Deer killed in the four national forest districts were estimated to number 150 to date. Soledad division has proved the most productive, having furnished 29 of the 40 deer carried out during the past week.

DEER GETS BATH ROCKAWAY, Ore. (U.P.)—A forked-horn buck stood shivering in the surf here for nearly an hour while a mongrel dog yapped excitedly on the shore. Watchers finally drove off the dog, roped the buck and took it to the hills, where it was released.

The opening of their season on October 7 when they will play Leuzinger. The Bees defeated Woodrow Wilson, 7-0, last Thursday in a practice game, and today are taking on the B squad from Glendale. The varsity team will have a practice game with Jacob Rits tomorrow, after which the remaining days before the opening of the season will be devoted to polishing off the rough spots and skull practice.

Torrance Glider Fan Wins Prize At Aero Golf Game

Alan Renn of Torrance won first place and an airplane flight Saturday at Los Angeles airport, in a game of Aero Golf, conducted by the Glider Club of Walker's Department Store of Los Angeles. "Seldom have I seen a lad try as diligently as Alan did," said Terence Vincent, U. S. director of Miniature Aircraft Fliers, who developed the new game of Aero Golf.

Another game of flying fun-called "Aero Archery"—has been developed by Mr. Vincent, but the rush of events Saturday at the airport presented its presentation.

Tartars Do Well In Pre-Season Practice Games

With two practice scrimmages under their belts, in which they showed up well, the Torrance Tartars are showing signs of turning out the most promising team the Torrance high school has had in many a long day. On Wednesday last week the Tartars defeated the Redondo Sea Hawks, two touchdowns to one, and repeated against the St. Agnes team from the Football League on Friday by three to two. Both opposing teams were from stronger leagues, and were composed of experienced players, which helps to bring out the fact that at last the Tartars are playing real football.

Enough men have turned out for practice to give Coach Bernard J. Donahue three full squads to work over, and from this string the varsity squad will be hand-picked. No regulars have been named as yet, but there are enough veterans and promising new candidates to make the task not too hard, and still leave enough over for a good string of substitutes, which is one department in which Torrance was woefully weak last year.

With the opening game of the Marine League season only a few days away, the squads are working hard every evening after school and have made surprising progress since the opening day. The Tartars will travel to Bell for the curtain-raiser, and the following week they take on the old rivals from Narbonne. This game will be played on the Torrance athletic field. All local football fans are given a special invitation to come out to see this game which will be one of the highlights of the season.

Marine League Schedule For B Teams Adopted

Comerford of Banning is Elected President at Monday's Meeting. At a meeting of the Marine League officials held Monday afternoon, a football schedule for the new "B" teams was drawn up to include representatives from Narbonne, South Gate, Jacob Riis, Jordan, Leuzinger, Banning and Bell. Torrance is not represented in the "B" league games this year. Officers elected to serve this season were Prof. Comerford of Banning high school, president, and Ben Comrada, Narbonne, secretary-treasurer. Election to the office of president goes by rotation in the Marine League, but although it had been Torrance's turn to hold this office, Principal Arthur G. Waidlich waived the privilege because of his recent arrival here, and the Banning man was chosen. Torrance will take its turn in 1933. Among other routine business transacted at the meeting, the salary of games officials, umpire, referees, etc., was fixed at $6 a game, which is a 25 per cent reduction below last year's figure. In addition, this salary amounts to a considerable cut as the number of games scheduled in football and other sports has been reduced. Dates of "B" games may be changed to Thursday afternoon instead of Friday as fixed Monday, but at present the complete schedule for the B teams is as follows: October 7, Narbonne vs. Leuzinger, South Gate vs. Riis, Jordan vs. Banning, Bell—bye. October 14, Bell vs. Narbonne, Riis vs. Banning, Jordan vs. South Gate, Leuzinger—bye. October 21, Riis vs. Jordan, Banning vs. Leuzinger, South Gate vs. Bell, Narbonne—bye. October 28, Banning vs. Narbonne, Jordan vs. Bell, Leuzinger vs. South Gate, Riis—bye. November 4, South Gate vs. Narbonne, Leuzinger vs. Jordan, Bell vs. Riis, Banning—bye. Thursday, November 10, Narbonne vs. Jordan, Riis vs. Leuzinger, Bell vs. Banning, South Gate—bye.

Jones Is Leader In Percentage Grid Games Won

PORTLAND, Ore.—(U.P.)—Paul John Schissler of Oregon State College and Glenn Scobey Warner of Stanford, the two oldest coaches in point of service in the Pacific Coast conference, start their ninth football campaigns this year. The current grid season finds but one replacement in head coaching ranks of the conference. That is the promotion of Prince L. (Prink) Callison to the berth occupied by Dr. Clarence W. Spears at University of Oregon. Prink was graduated from coaching the Oregon freshmen. He came back to his alma mater from a highly successful coaching job at Medford high school. Doc Spears left Oregon to take over the destinies of the Wisconsin Badgers. Coach Howard Jones of Southern California, whose team won the national championship last year, is out ahead of the pack in number of games won and victory percentages, although he has been at the Trojan helm a year less than Schissler and Warner have coached in this conference. Conference records of the coaches, including the absent Dr. Spears, follow: Yrs. W. L. T. Pct. Jones, U. S.
